About Net Credentials

Net Credentials is a service that gives your business real emphasis, bringing your Company and the Internet together. The emphasis is not just greatly enhanced visibility it is also design impact, credible content, impetus and bonding the Internet with your people and business.

A Web site is an essential marketing tool, it can say a lot about you and your business - make it count - have an impact - make it work with your people. A coordinated approach to doing business. That's the Net Credentials service!

The Net Credentials service doesn't just deliver Web sites, it gives an "Internet Presence" and hones your team to win.

How?

We're not just Web site designers, we are business technicians with 30 years experience of running successful private and public companies. That's executive management, marketing, sales, and finance expertise all rolled into one with some solid IT and Internet development skills as well.

Cost?

It doesn't cost the earth, when you are good at what you do, it is achieved more efficiently so the ultimate cost is less than you might expect.

We will either give you a fixed price for a specific task or we will work to a budget giving you frequent and meaningful cost analysis. You will know how your money is being spent and see what you are getting for it every step of the way.

Does it take long?

A given task does not take us as long to do as many of our counterparts might take. That's because we are efficient, focused, experienced and we know you need results. Enough said!

Putting business
in your hands

Not just the Internet

The Net Credentials service is Company Development, Strategy Planning and Team Building - preparing your team to develop your business.

New Client Capture by Marketing Strategy, Sales Pitch and Promotion are just some of the skill sets that the Net Credentials service will arm your team with. Not just a Web site, pack of leaflets and a bit of sales speak, the Net Credentials service will train your professionals to deliver a whole new strategic "New Business Capture" approach using their knowledge of your products and services and freshly honed skills provided through the Net Credentials Service.

Training your people to make the best use of their existing skills, giving them new skills, and showing them how to be perceptive with Clients and in New Business scenarios. We give them confidence to use their own personalities to your best advantage, showing them how to get noticed and have credibility. We teach them how to work together as a team to win new business for your company.

The Internet is the most powerful marketing tool available but it won't work on it's own.

Don't just have a Web site - Have a whole strategy that combines your people, their skills, your products and the Internet.

Penetrate new customers by demonstration of quality, class, strength, knowledge and a sheer will to win with a crafted combination of your people and the Internet.
